

Dear _____

It has come to my attention that you have been misbehaving. Whether it's not listening to your parents, throwing tantrums, or hitting your sibling, this type of behavior is simply not acceptable.

I know that it's sometimes hard to control yourself, but you need to keep trying. After all, Santa is always watching. And believe me, he has a very long list of those who have been naughty and nice.

So please try to make good choices. Otherwise you might just find a lump of coal in your stocking come Christmas morning.

I'll be back soon,